Costs may double by '85

Grim energy outlook

Energy Administration is greeting incoming President Carter with a grim forecast of tight energy supplies and rising prices for years to come.

In a report issued Wednesday, the energy agency predicted a near doubling of residential fuel costs by 1985 as a result of inflation and real energy cost

The outlook beyond that may be even worse, the report warned.

The FEA says the world's demand for oil will bump up against the limits of its production capacity in the mid or late 1980s. That supply-demand collision is likely to spark even steeper price increases

The report's relatively good news was that U.S. energy demand was expected to increase more slowly than previously predicted, a trend that will make it easier to reduce U.S. dependence on

Compared with a historic growth rate of about 3.3 per cent a year before the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo, U.S. energy consumption was predicted to rise at about 2.5 per cent a year, slightly lower than last year's 2.8 per cent forecast. The FEA said the slower growth is due

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal to the combination of energy conservation measures and fuel price increases.

John Christie, assistant administrator for energy information and analysis, said in an interview that the FEA is assuming cause the 1976 residential energy bill to continued inflation ranging from last year's 5.6 per cent down to 4 per cent by 1985, forcing energy prices up a total of 58.4 per cent by then.

Regardless of inflation, the FEA bill - including purchase of natural gas.

estimated, residential energy prices will reflect annual real cost increases of about 3 per cent if imported oil prices rise by 2 per cent. That alone would grow more than 30 per cent by 1985.

Taken together, inflation and real cost increases may add nearly 89 per cent by 1985 to the size of the residential energy

Ontario plan can be a guide for U.S.

By Harold Blumenfeld

Has Medicare become merely another bureaucratic branch of government instead of providing the necessary medical care for Americans? Since many senior citizens pay a disproportionate part of their small incomes for medical expenses, they forego the necessary attention which can aptly be termed as "preventative medicine.

By this time most of us have learned the hard way that Medicare doesn't reimburse us for all of our costs of medical care. First, we have to take a $60 deductible, with anticipation this will be raised in 1977. Then Medicare pays us only 80 per cent of what they consider "reasonable"

Phelps unhappy with Teasdale

Phelps says he's "deeply upset" over Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale's drastic cut in Phelp's budget request for the upcoming fiscal year.

The Republican lieutenant governor had asked for $213,179 to fund his office operations, but Teasdale, a Democrat, recommended only $115,979. Phelps said he needed the funds to carry on the programs he's assumed as lieutenant governor, such as a volunteer and problemsolving "ombudsman" program.

But Teasdale aide Brenden Ryan says "no personalities" were involved in the budget cuts. He said Teasdale wants to operate those programs out of the governor's office.

Phelps says, however, that as governor, Teasdale will not have time to work to solve the number of problems which the ombudsman program would bring to him.

Before leaving for Jimmy Carter's presidential inauguration ceremonies in Washington, D.C., Teasdale sent three of his aides to meet with Phelps to check to make sure the lieutenant governor would run the state in the way in which the new governor wanted it to be run.

Specifically, Teasdale's press aide Dale Amick said, the governor did not want Phelps appointing a new state auditor while the governor was out of the state.

Footprints will lead you to the office

Patrons of the State Motor Vehicle Registration office located in the Pettis County courthouse are advised to follow the green footprints on the second floor to reach that office.

The office opened Thursday morning in the office formerly occupied by the county health nurses. The new location is on the same floor, however, it is now on the south side of the lobby.

Mrs. Lorraine Jackson, fee agent for that office, said the office has extended its hours slightly and will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. instead of 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The office will remain open from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Persons seeking new drivers licenses or renewals must come Monday through Friday, she said, as the visual test examiner does not work on Satur-

Mrs. Jackson said her office will reinstitute the use of its numbering system. Each person coming to the office will be given a number, she said, and will be taken in turn, thereby eliminating long lines and congestion.

The new office location provides more space for its operations and will relieve congestion on the second floor of the courthouse.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana has become the 35th state to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, by a one-vote margin after the wife of President-elect Carter called to ask one wavering legislator to switch his vote.

Democratic state Sen. W. Wayne Townsend decided to switch his vote after he received a call at the capitol from Rosalynn Carter.

However, he said he changed his position on his own and not because of the Women in Indiana who oppose the ERA say they will continue to try to defeat the amendment.

As the Indiana Senate voted 26-24 for the ERA Tuesday, a bill to rescind ratification was introduced in the state Senate of Wyoming, which is nicknamed the Equality State.

Two of the 35 states - Tennessee and Nebraska - have rescinded ratifications, but the legality of those actions has not been decided by federal courts. The amendment, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex, must be ratified by 38 states by March 22, 1979, to be added to the Constitution

The Indiana House last week voted 54-45 for ratification. It took the General Assembly five sessions to vote approval.

We urge all other people to join us, for before the American people but urged "a fresh faith in the old dream.

Though little more than 1,000 words long, the speech had a ringing quality

"We are a strong nation and we will maintain strength so sufficient that it need not be proved in combat — a quiet That we had remembered the words of strength based not merely on the size of an arsenal, but on the nobility of ideas."

> "We will be ever vigilant and never vulnerable, and we will fight our wars against poverty, ignorance and injustice, for those are the enemies against which our forces can be honorably marshaled." As he repeated the oath, Carter's hand rested on an ancient family Bible open to the admonition from the prophet Micah "to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God. When his time as president is done, Carter said, he hopes people will say the nation remembered the words of Micah "and renewed our search for humility, mercy and justice. He hoped, too, for a legacy of finding work for the unemployed, strengthening for the law and equal treatment under it. "I would hope," said Carter, "that the nations of the world might say that we had built a lasting peace ... These are not just my goals, but our common hopes." Carter took his place on the inaugural stand to the strains of the Navy Hymn, shook hands with a smiling Ford, touched hands with Mrs. Carter, and the ceremony began.

"Great crowd," Ford remarked. 'Really is," said Carter, as Sen. Howard W. Cannon of Nevada took the microphone.

"In the highest tradition of our form of government, we are here today to inaugurate the 39th President of the United States," he said.

United Methodist Bishop William R. Cannon of Atlanta spoke the invocation 'Let this first administration in the third century of our national existence be the beginning of a new era - a time of rectitude, righteousness and prosperity for all our citizens," he said.

The temperature was in the upper 20s, the skies clear, and the crowd was bundled against the cold. But neither Carter nor Ford wore hat or coat.

Carter's brief address was interrupted seven times by applause, never louder than when he spoke in tribute to Ford. Ford, his hands folded in his lap, looked on solemnly. Carter's nine-year-old daughter Amy was first at his side as the inaugural address ended. Mrs. Carter joined them, and the new President put his arm around her waist as they stood while the leaders of government and the crowd beyond joined in applause for a new leader.

Then the transfer was done. Carter and his wife stood, eyes closed, for the benediction. "There is loneliness on the mountain," said Archbishop John R. Roach of Minneapolis.

The Star Spangled Banner ended the solemn hour, and Carter's celebration

Deduction decision: standard vs. itemized

the fourth in a series of five articles to help taxpayers prepare their 1976 income tax returns

By EDMUND PINTO Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A key step in doing your income taxes is deciding whether it is better to take the standard deduction or to itemize deductions

This year that is a decision every taxpayer will have to make because of a change in tax law requiring everyone to compute taxable income. That's the amount of money on which you pay taxes and it will be less than you actually earned during the year.

The Internal Revenue Service does provide some guidelines to help you decide which road to take, but you will have to do some preliminary work before you can make a sound judgment.

Basically, that entails a good estimate on how much in carefully. It will tell you when deductible: mortgage, charge itemized deductions you might

Today, the 39th President of the United States takes office. There are a lot of things I don't want to know about him. I don't want to know his golf scores, his tennis scores, his bowling scores or see his spills if he is a skier. (It makes me nervous to see a President fumble a ball on first base.)

I don't want to see his scars if he has had surgery, especially if it involves taking off his necktie

I don't want to know if he and the First Lady share a double bed or go singles. (I like to believe that a President's sex life is like that of my biology teacher whom I had a crush on in the 8th grade non-existent.

Heart attack is ruled as death cause

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - An inmate who was found dead in his cell at the Missouri State Penitentiary Tuesday night died of a heart attack. Warden Donald Wyrick said Wednesday.

Gerald Eugene Shelton, 40. was first believed to have died from a drug overdose. Shelton's cellmate had indicated that Shelton was taking medication and because there were no marks found on the body, Cole County Coroner Dr. Lawrence Giffen thought the inmate might have taken an overdose.

An autopsy was performed Wednesday and Wyrick said the results indicated Shelton died of a massive heart attack. "He had a history of heart trouble," Wyrick said. "in fact he was discharged from the prison hospital Jan. 7 where he was being treated for a heart condition.

Shelton had been serving a 15-year sentence for a 1966 armed robbery in Phelps County and an additional three years for an escape from the Moberly Training Center for Men, Wyrick said.

Southern Florida hustling to bring back the tourist dollar

EDITOR'S NOTE - Gambling casinos, better beaches in the Caribbean and cheaper vacations elsewhere, have cut heavily into Miami's tourist industry. Now the city is planning big expenditures to reverse the trend.

By MARTIN MERZER Associated Press Writer

There are other problems. The beach has eroded badly in spots along Miami Beach. The ederal government is about to begin a $60 million, two-year restoration project, but in some areas now the surf washes up to within yards of hotel patios.

"Among young people with small children, we get a lot of movement to Disney World, but not to Miami. Near Disney World, there is Sea World, Cypress Gardens, Cape Canaveral, etc. They can spend a whole week there," said Marilyn Green, a travel agent in Bowie, Md. Although central Florida's tourist trade is booming, the visitors are not as easy with their money and often don't have to be as those who once crowded into Miami Beach.

In 1975, it was $8.8

"We just want to get our share," said Ed Spivey, the Atlanta-based director of the Georgia Tourist Division. 'We've got the home of the future president (Plains, Ga.), and that will help us get some people off the interstate.'

Bot Whitley, Florida's tourism director, said the Sunshine State is fighting back.

"If those people spend a day or two in another southern state, that means they'll spend less here," Whitley said. "We have to concentrate on fighting by using more promotional advertising.

Meanwhile, officials in Miami are trying to give those central Florida visitors a reason to travel 240 miles farther south. A $43 million aquatic park and amusemententertainment area has been near downtown Miami.

he sat a couple of rows away from me and I never saw much of him except after school when we used to go fishing

One day I said to Jimmy, "What do you want to do when you grow up" and he said, "I want to go to Annapolis and become a naval officer." I said, "What a coincidence, so do I!" So we both applied. I got the appointment, but I told them I wouldn't accept it unless they took Jimmy as well. Since they wanted me for the football team they relented and

After leaving the academy Jimmy and I went our separate ways until we both found ourselves in the nuclear submarine program. Jimmy was given command of a sub, and I was his executive officer. One stormy night he was on the bridge and a big wave came along and washed him overboard. I jumped over the side, without a life jacket, and grabbed him. "Hold on, Jimmy," I told him. "Have faith and we will be saved." I held his chin with one hand and swam back to the sub with the other.

After we were back in the wardroom Jimmy said to me, "I don't know how to thank you. You saved my life.'

I remember replying, "Forget it. You would have done the same for me. Besides, us Georgia boys have to stick

I had a little money I had I'd be stretching the saved in the Navy and I lent it to him truth if I said I knew interest-free. "Someday you can pay me back," I told him.

> Then after making a success of the peanut business he had the urge to go into politics. One day after Sunday school he told me he wanted to run for governor of Georgia. Jimmy was bitter about Georgia's backward stand on race, and he had no use for the political machine that had been running things down there for centuries.

I got together a group of far sighted Southern businessmen and labor leaders and persuaded them that Carter could turn Georgia and the South around. We worked hard but we got Jimmy into the governor's mansion - something none of us ever regretted.

I lost touch for a few years, but one day I ran into Jimmy in a supermarket in New Hampshire. "Whatcha doing up here?" I asked him.

"Running for president of the United States. Nobody believes I can do it," Jimmy said. "I'm thinking of giving up."

"I believe you can do it," I told him. I talked to several friends of mine, and we raised enough money to back Jimmy in the primaries in Florida and Ohio. I always stayed in the background but every night, no matter how late, Jimmy called and asked me what he should say

I helped him with the debates and I talked to him about campaign strategy, but I can't say I won the election for him. Jimmy did that himself, and I'd be the first one to admit it.

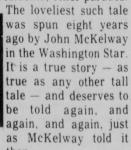

So when people ask me if I know Jimmy Carter I have to say, "I've met him once or twice. He seems like a nice person." If Jimmy wants to admit we know each other better than that. I think it's up

Piping band of legend

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — This is Inauguration Week in our town. Old-timers tell tall tales of other Presidents, other parades.

The story goes 'round 'round again every four years, when tales are told of old inaugurals, of balls and bands, top hats and teas.

No one has ever been too sure when it happened, under what administration, or what president, or what Cabinet. But old-timers tell of it with wet eyes late in the evening and some believe there must be something to it. For the Pottstown Piping Band has never been found. And

Little is actually known. But, 'tis said, the leader was a distinguished-looking man with a bristling snowy white mustache who went by the name of Col. John P. McSousa. He was known to have served in several wars and then, upon retirement, dabbled in Pennsylvania politics while deciding early one morning, over his kipper, to organize a pipe

After a time, and under the stern discipline of the colonel, the band of eight members exhibited a certain dash and wailing at city functions and began building a reputation throughout the state - but always in cities that held marches on straight main streets.

Of course the biggest honor eventually It is now up to Jimmy Carter came - an invitation to play in the Inaugural Parade. Col. McSousa graciously accepted and the band was on its way.

> 'Tis said the band stayed at the Willard, although others say it was at the old Patent Office Building, in temporary quarters. Be that as it may, the colonel got his instructions from the Inaugural Committee for those times; he was to form down near the Bartholdt Fountain and follow a string bassoon band from New Mexico, all dressed in white.

legends and no one can ever forget, 'tis said, how the Pottstown Pipe Band moved off on a day that was snowy and late in the afternoon.

Once on the avenue, they broke out in "The 74th's Farewell to Edinburgh," a tune McSousa had selected for that spot on the march route, both sad and, yet, in August, 1963. "This time he brought

But the Pottstown Pipers moved on, up the avenue, with Col. McSousa's eyes directly on the back of the last man in the string bassoon band from New Mexico. What was on his mind was the difficult turn from Pennsylvania into 15th, and then from 15th, back into Pennsylvania. He had charted the course for the band. lectured at great length about the obvious difficulties, and, for the first time in his life, he was actually worried.

Passing the Willard they broke into "The Duke of Rosburgh's Farewell to the Blackmont Forest," a good, solid tune, and made the turn well, and then greater flakes began falling. The leader of the New Mexico aggregation, extremely uncomfortable at the time — his bassoon was freezing — decided to call the whole thing off and retreated as quietly as possible into a warm restaurant on F

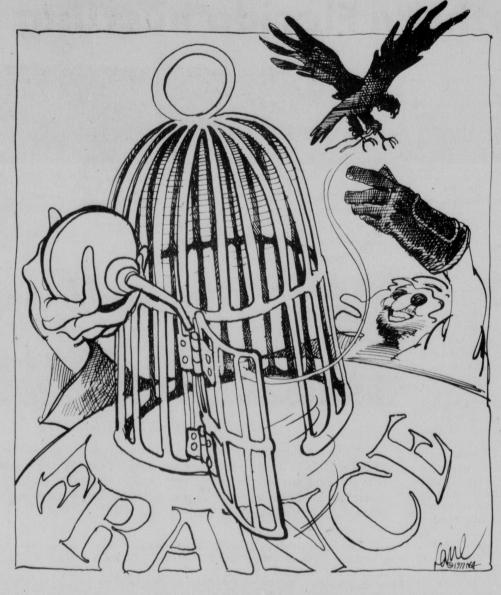

The gallant men of the Pottstown Pipers marched on, swinging into "Bonnie Charlie," and by the time they blindly approached Pennsylvania again, the gloomy shapes were mourning "Scotland the Brave.

Most people maintain today that they never saw the turn; some say they vanished at the intersection. A great number of people say they marched on up 15th, past McPherson Square, past the Washington Post and the Pick Lee House, and it was there that Col. McSousa took a left turn and headed out Massachusetts Avenue, playing, incidentally, "The Barren Rocks of Aden," which is reasonably gripping.

Some say they went as far as the Naval Observatory; in the early 1950s there was a report they were still playing in the snow around Glen Echo; golfers have seen them in the mists around the Burning Tree Country Club, frequently.

But, actually, they have never been

Editor's mail New PSC no answer

In this age of anti-utilities, I was extremely impressed with the editorial of Jan. 13 concerning "Packing the PSC." The insight of our local paper to be willing to comment on facts in the face of a 'popular movement" is very encouraging. With the necessity of increased rates by all utility companies becoming somewhat regular, your newspaper was willing to take an in-depth look at the real reason despite the obvious repercussions of the Naderite philosophy.

As manager of the largest utility, the support reaffirms the position of Southwestern Bell to provide the best available service at the lowest possible price. Although our rates have been forced upward, I feel that we still offer the best daily bargain in town.

The members of the Public Service Commission should not shoulder the blame for utility increases. I firmly believe they have done more than their share to oversee the activities of all utilities. New members are not the answer.

Nixon's old law office is bought

LA HABRA, Calif. (AP) - A Southern California fan of former President Richard M. Nixon says he and two friends bought Nixon's former law office and will restore it so people can visit the site.

Cold weather hurting game

Bitter cold and snow have placed Missouri's wildlife in jeopardy and the Department of Conservation has begun an emergency feeding program that is being administered by its Small animals and birds in rural areas are the hardest hit because of the lack of food, according to Larry Gale, assistant director of the department. The emergency situation has been created because of the heavy snow cover that has remained on the ground for over two weeks.

Area residents are urged to place grain, suet, bird seed and even some table scraps near wildlife habitat (cover) to help the smaller animals survive

This winter's snow-cold problem for wildlife is considered the worst since 1960, when deer suffered a winter kill, an almost unprecedented occurrence in Missouri.

One indication of that winter's toll on wildlife was the quail population the next year. The quail production index, a measure of the number of broods seen by observers statewide, dropped from 10 to 3 in 1961.

The Conservation Department generally discourages feeding of wildlife, except in such cases of extreme emergency, because food attracts predators (sometimes in the form of poachers) as well as the creatures for which it was in-

Food for wildlife is often placed in areas of convenience for the person depositing it, not wildlife. Food along roads may attract quail, but draws them from needed cover and exposes them to other dangers, such as predators.

Those depositing food for wildlife are urged to go to the effort of putting it on the "back forty" where it will do the most good. Wildlife must have both food and cover to maintain

Although it will not help much this winter, the Conservation Department urges landowners to plant food and cover plots. Seed for such plots is available at no charge from conservation agents.

Steel vs. lead

Barring last-minute changes, St. Charles County, located at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers, will be the only waterfowling area in Missouri having to use the new steel shot during the 1977 hunting season.

The remainder of the state will come under the lead shot ban during the 1978 season, under current plans.

Hunters view the lead shot as the best because of its weight, which stores more stopping power, and softness, which causes less wear on gun barrels.

However, the lead shot, which gathers on the bottom of heavily-shot-over waterfowl areas, is toxic to waterfowl. Two or three shot picked up while feeding are enough to kill ducks

The argument over lead and steel shot use has been one of which will result in more lost ducks - lead poisoning or crippling from less efficient steel shot.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service began a three-year phaseout program on lead shot in 1976, beginning in the Atlantic Flyway.

Mandatory steel shot use, being introduced in the Mississippi Flyway in 1977, includes only St. Charles County in Missouri, which has a number of private duck clubs.

Regulations now under consideration state that waterfowl hunters must use steel shot on all waters of St. Charles County and within a 150-yard zone of land adjacent to the borders of these waters, including lakes, ponds, marshes, swamps, rivers, streams and seasonally-flooded areas of all types

The only exclusions would be drainage ditches and temporary sheet water more than 150 yards from water areas described. Hunters have until Jan. 31 to comment. Such comments should be sent to the Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of Interior, Washington, D.C., 20240.

The final decision on the proposed 1977 regulation on steel shot will be made in February. To date, mandatory steel shot has been used in known problem areas. The list of those area will be expanded in the Atlantic Flyway in 1977.

Fish and Wildlife Service studies indicate lead poisoning accounts for between 1.6 and 2.4 million duck deaths annual-

Service studies also found that steel shot will not be much of a problem for modern shotguns, however, doublebarreled, foreign and older guns may suffer barrel damage. The steel shot will also cost more, perhaps 50 per cent or

The possibility still exists that some metal may be developed that combines the killing power of lead with the non-toxic quality of steel. However, the only alternatives at present are steel or lead, with steel the only alternative in St. Charles County for 1977 at present.

Trout tournament

Some 30 persons braved the cold Saturday to participate in the Muddy Creek Trollers trout tournament at Lake Taneycomo. The team of Carl Collins, Curly Collins and Rick Davis took first place honors with the heaviest stringer. Joe Bode, John Kehde and Larry Bock came in second place, John Bus and Bob Jones finished third, and Jerry Barr, Howard Love and Jack Barr took fourth. Bode caught the largest fish, a 2-pound, 11-ounce rainbow. Most of the trout were caught on corn and a few on worms.

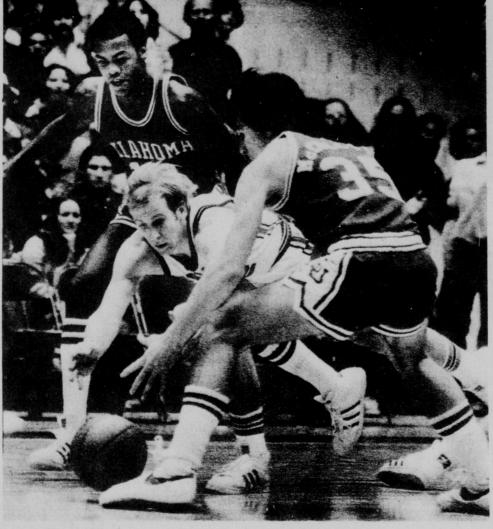

The next scheduled meeting of the Muddy Creek Trollers is Feb. 7 at the Missouri State Bank building. The family fishing club now has about 50 members, Bode said.

Tigers cold at line, lose to K.C. Lincoln

KANSAS CITY - Free throws told the story.

Smith-Cotton outrebounded Kansas City Lincoln by 10 Wednesday night, outscored Lincoln from the field 36-34, but when it was all over, Lincoln escaped with a 46-39 win to advance to the finals Friday night at the Kansas City Center Invitational Tourna-

"The difference was that Tigers' leading scorer. they hit 12 of 14 free throws and we hit three of 11," said Smith-Cotton coach David Porter. "Five of those misses" came on one-and-one opportunities.

The Tigers, 6-9, fell behind early to Lincoln, 9-2, and ranked fourth in the latest Kansas City Star high school poll. They were outscored 13-6 in the first quarter and 15-8 in the second.

"I don't feel like we played very well in the first half," Porter said. "A combination of things really got us in a hole. We weren't quite as agressive as we could have been, and turnovers (18 for the game) obviously hurt us. We were a little bigger but they were quicker . . . the quickest team we've played all year."

The Tigers regained the form in the second half that produced a 50-49 win Monday night over host Center in the first round of the tourney. S-C outscored Lincoln 25-18 in the

'There were five or six calls that were absolutely ridiculous that led to (Lincoln) baskets," Porter said. "But you know you can't complain about that when you stand at the free throw line and hit 3 out of 11. The difference in the ballgame was our inability to hit the free throws.

Smith-Cotton plays for third place at 7 p.m. Friday against Kansas City Southeast, 9-3, another Kansas City power. Southeast, seeded second in the tournament and ranked eighth in the Star poll, lost to third-seeded Shawnee Mission Northwest 61-56, ranked seventh in the Star poll. Lincoln first-seeded in the tournament, will meet Northwest for the championship.

"They're big and quick but last two quarters but couldn't quite close the gap.

"I've got to admire these outlined as Lincoln," said Porter of Southeast. "They like to run and shoot and press. The thing that we've got to do is only give them one shot.'

Gale Catlett is among the first to admit that television has helped college basketball. But Wednesday night, he says, it hurt his Cincinnati Bearcats.

The nation's second-ranked team was short-circuited by a TV timeout, according to Catlett, and thus lost an 83-77 decision to No. 12 Louisville.

'I wish they'd eliminate the timeouts for TV or call them at a set time," said Catlett. "We were making a run at them and had them on the ropes, so to speak.

It was Catlett's contention that the critical timeout slowed the Bearcats after they had picked up momentum and forged a 31-31 tie in the first half. The Cincinnati coach also accused Louisville Coach Denny Crum of conspiracy in the incident.

"What bothered me," said Catlett, "was that Coach Crum called for that timeout from the bench.

Crum's alleged directorial talent was not the only thing within Catlett's range of fire. He also took verbal shots at

Junkies life not pretty one

Dear Ann: First it was pot.

then pills, next the needle. What do you say when your mother asks where you've been till 3:00 a.m.? Do you tell her you've been in the cemetery waiting for your supplier to show up? And when he doesn't you have to hit the bottle to kill the pain and go to school five hours later - bombed out of your gourd.

What do you say when the girls in gym class ask about the needle marks on your arms? Have you ever gotten the cold sweats in history class and prayed to God no one notices? Half an hour before the softball game you gulp a couple a of downers to help you get through it. It works pretty good. No one suspects a thing. Or so it seems.

When you have no good veins left you try a place you've heard about. So you lift your tongue and jam the needle in but you miss, so you pull it out and keep trying till you get hold of one.

Do you know how it feels to want to die but not have the guts to kill yourself?

I'm 17 and finally came to my senses three months ago, thanks to a Drug Abuse Center. Please, Ann, print this for those who don't know the hell of being a junkie. - Lucky In Ill.

Dear L.I.I.: One letter from a girl who has been there is worth a dozen sermons and ten pounds of paper. Glad you made it back, honey.

If these readings were not normal, the subject would have to undergo a second test. He would also be questioned as to why he wanted to tamper with his responses.

Most people take the lie detector test to clear their name and would not risk using drugs beforehand.

Dear Ann Landers: I felt awfully sorry for that woman who wore a hearing aid. It brought back some memories. My grandfather used to pull the same dirty trick on my grandmother. He would move his lips and not make a sound. Poor Grandma would go bonkers trying to figure out why her new batteries had gone dead.

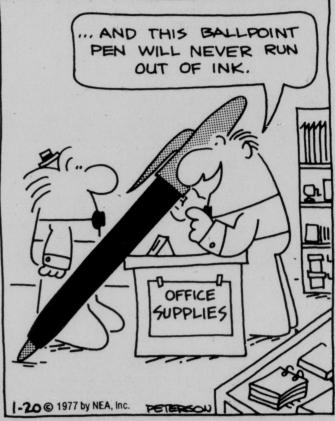

My mother came up with a neat solution. Mom told Grandma that whenever she thought her battery was gone to go to the phone and listen for the dial tone. If she heard it she was to tell Grandpa, "The phone is for you." Of course, he never heard the phone ring. She'd then tell him HIS hearing was going. When he got to the phone and no one was on. he'd ask, "Who was it?" She'd reply, "A woman - but I'll bet she hung up when she knew I was home.

After five of these "calls" Grandpa stopped his gameplaying. Pass it on, will you, Ann? - St. Cloud, Minn.

Treaty on canal may come soon

WASHINGTON (AP) Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance is telling Latin American countries the Carter administration should be able to complete negotiations for a new Panama Canal treaty within three months.

Foreign minister Gonzalo Facio of Costa Rica, serving as a special emissary of eight Latin American presidents, said in an interview Tuesday that Vance also told him Panamanian Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd will be invited to Washington to begin talks. within two weeks of Carter's inauguration.

That would make him the first foreign minister to be asked to the capital.

Facio said that in his conversation with Vance on Tuesday, the incoming secretary of state said "he thinks the completion of the treaty should be done within the next three months.'

Facio said letters he brought to Vance for later transmission to Carter made three key points. He said the Latin American presidents expressed satisfaction over Carter's professed willingness to forge a new inter-American policy, hailed the appointment of Vance and expressed the view that "Panama is the main and first issue between the United States and Latin America.

He said the letters told Vance that Panama will be a "test of the good intentions" of Carter's desire "to start a new policy more equitable and more profitable toward Latin America. Panama wants to share U.S. occupation by the year 2000. Panama also wants a fifteen-fold hike in toll revenues, which now bring Panama under $3 million a

Agreement reached

KANSAS CITY (AP) — One major Kansas City area refinery announced Wednesday that it had reached tentative agreement with its oil industry workers, while contract talks continued at another. Amoco Oil Co. and negotiators for the Oil. Chemical and Atomic Workers announced that A new two-year contract was tenatively approved at the Sugar Creek refinery in a Kansas City suburb.

The 300 members of the union local are scheduled to vote on ratification Monday night, according to Nolan E Matthews, local president.

Negotiators for the union at Phillips Petroleum Co. refinery in Kansas City, Kan., reported that talks were progressing on a new contract for about 340 workers, although they are now recessed.

'Both sides are just looking over where we stand," said W J. Snoddy, refinery manager. "It's certainly no stalemate."

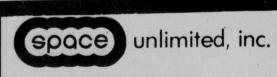

L. V. Davis, president of the union local at the Phillips refinery, said he is optimistic a settlement can be reached within a week or so.

The international union has been negotiating at Denver with 60 oil companies on a general two-year contract which includes a general pay raise, cost of living adjustments, and benefits. So far, tentative agreements have been reached with 17of the companies.

Although the old contract expired on Jan. 8, no strikes have been called in the Kansas City area and none is expected.

President Carter to pursue dream

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jimmy Carter, an outsider no more, was inaugurated President of the United States Thursday, urging upon his countrymen fresh faith and new commitment to "the bold and brilliant dream" of America.

Then, hand-in-hand with his wife Rosalynn, the new President walked near the head of his own parade — home to the White House.

Three minutes past a sunny, icy noon, Carter concluded the oath of office that restored the White House to custody of the voters and ended the 29-month appointed presidency of Gerald R. Ford.

The rites of inauguration completed, Carter signed his first presidential document, formally nominating his Cabinet for Senate confirmation.

The Senate confirmed eight Cabinet members by voice vote, but deferred action on the other three because of requests for roll-call votes. Those will come later for Joseph Califano as secretary of health, education and welfare, F. Ray Marshall as secretary of labor and Griffin B. Bell as attorney general.

By dusk, Carter was behind his desk in the Oval Office, announcing that he will meet next Tuesday with congressional

He also said he was conducting job interviews, although he didn't say for

Press Secretary Jody Powell said the new President plans a tour around the nation early in his term, probably within the next three months.

'The President is very concerned about not becoming isolated," he said.

Carter had promised to stay close to the people and so he walked, smiling and waving, the mile and a half from his inauguration at the Capitol to the front of the White House, past applauding crowds estimated by police at 350,000.

There, with his family and Vice President and Mrs. Walter F. Mondale he reviewed the parade.

Ford, whom Carter praised as a healer, acknowledged a final round of cheers at the Capitol and then, by presidential helicopter and jetliner, flew to political retirement.

Except for three knots of demonstrators, off the route of the parade Carter led, it was a day of harmony and of the unity the new President government. Carter stood solemn, a hours after Jimmy Carter became the 39th President of the United States, the Senate Thursday confirmed the appointments of eight Cabinet nominees and two other top administration officials.

However, three other Cabinet nominees will have to wait longer for confirmation because they are opposed by some senators.

The names of the eight successful nominees were called up one by one and the question asked, "Will the Senate advise and consent on this nomination?' Approval of each was by voice vote.

They were Cyrus Vance as secretary of state; Harold Brown, defense; W. him real well. It's true back," I told him. our family lived a few miles down the road from Jimmy in Plains, Ga., and we both went to the same grammar and high schools. But he sat a couple of rows away from me and I school when we used to go fishing

One day I said to Jimmy, "What do you want to do when you grow up" and he said, "I want to go to Annapolis and become a naval officer." I said, "What a coincidence, so do I!" So we both applied. I got the appointment, but I told them I wouldn't accept it unless they took Jimmy as well. Since they wanted me for the football team they relented and allowed as Jimmy could go too. Jimmy and I were roommates at the Naval Academy and one day I introduced him to a lovely girl named Rosalyn Smith. They fell in love and were later to marry, which pleased me no end.

After leaving the academy Jimmy and I went our separate ways until we both found ourselves in the nuclear submarine program. Jimmy was given command of a sub, and I was his executive officer. One stormy night he was on the bridge and a big wave came along and washed every night, no matter how late, Jimmy him overboard. I jumped over the side, without a life jacket, and grabbed him. "Hold on, Jimmy," I told him. "Have faith and we will be saved." I held his chin with one hand and swam back to the sub with the other.

After we were back in the wardroom Jimmy said to me, "I don't know how to thank you. You saved my life.

Then after making a success of the peanut business he had the urge to go into politics. One day after Sunday school he told me he wanted to run for governor of Georgia. Jimmy was bitter about Georgia's backward stand on race, and he had no use for the political machine never saw much of him except after that had been running things down there for centuries.

> I got together a group of far sighted Southern businessmen and labor leaders and persuaded them that Carter could turn Georgia and the South around. We worked hard but we got Jimmy into the governor's mansion — something none of us ever regretted.

> I lost touch for a few years, but one day I ran into Jimmy in a supermarket in New Hampshire. "Whatcha doing up here?" I asked him.

> "Running for president of the United States. Nobody believes I can do it," Jimmy said. "I'm thinking of giving up.

> "I believe you can do it," I told him. I talked to several friends of mine, and we raised enough money to back Jimmy in the primaries in Florida and Ohio. I always stayed in the background but called and asked me what he should say

I helped him with the debates and I talked to him about campaign strategy, but I can't say I won the election for him. Jimmy did that himself, and I'd be the first one to admit it.

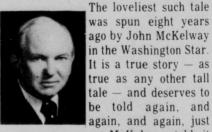

So when people ask me if I know Jimmy Carter I have to say, "I've met him once or twice. He seems like a nice person." If Jimmy wants to admit we know each other better than that, I think it's up

Piping band of legend

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON - This is Inauguration Week in our town. Old-timers tell tall tales of other Presidents, other parades.

Kilpatrick

true as any other tall tale — and deserves to be told again, and again, and again, just as McKelway told it

The story goes 'round 'round again every four years, when tales are told of old inaugurals, of balls and bands, top hats and teas.

No one has ever been too sure when it happened, under what administration, or what president, or what Cabinet. But old-timers tell of it with wet eyes late in the evening and some believe there must be something to it. For the Pottstown Piping Band has never been found. And

Little is actually known. But, 'tis said, the leader was a distinguished-looking man with a bristling snowy white mustache who went by the name of Col. John P. McSousa. He was known to have served in several wars and then, upon retirement, dabbled in Pennsylvania politics while deciding early one morn-Lady should let the amendment ing, over his kipper, to organize a pipe

> After a time, and under the stern discipline of the colonel, the band of eight members exhibited a certain dash and wailing at city functions and began building a reputation throughout the state - but always in cities that held marches on straight main streets.

> Of course the biggest honor eventually came - an invitation to play in the Inaugural Parade. Col. McSousa graciously accepted and the band was on its way.

'Tis said the band stayed at the Willard, although others say it was at the old Patent Office Building, in temporary quarters. Be that as it may, the colonel got his instructions from the Inaugural Committee for those times; he was to form down near the Bartholdt Fountain and follow a string bassoon band from New Mexico, all dressed in white.

legends and no one can ever forget, 'tis said, how the Pottstown Pipe Band moved off on a day that was snowy and late in the afternoon.

Once on the avenue, they broke out in "The 74th's Farewell to Edinburgh," a tune McSousa had selected for that spot on the march route, both sad and, yet, in a way joyous.

But the Pottstown Pipers moved on, up the avenue, with Col. McSousa's eyes directly on the back of the last man in the string bassoon band from New Mexico. What was on his mind was the difficult turn from Pennsylvania into 15th, and then from 15th, back into Pennsylvania. He had charted the course for the band. lectured at great length about the obvious difficulties, and, for the first time in his life, he was actually worried.

Passing the Willard they broke into "The Duke of Rosburgh's Farewell to the Blackmont Forest," a good, solid tune, and made the turn well, and then greater flakes began falling. The leader of the New Mexico aggregation, extremely uncomfortable at the time + his bassoon was freezing — decided to call the whole thing off and retreated as quietly as possible into a warm restaurant on F

The gallant men of the Pottstown Pipers marched on, swinging into "Bonnie Charlie," and by the time they blindly approached Pennsylvania again, the gloomy shapes were mourning "Scotland the Brave.'

Most people maintain today that they never saw the turn; some say they vanished at the intersection. A great number of people say they marched on up 15th, past McPherson Square, past the Washington Post and the Pick Lee House, and it was there that Col. McSousa took a left turn and headed out Massachusetts Avenue, playing, incidentally, "The Barren Rocks of Aden," which is reasonably gripping.

Some say they went as far as the Naval Observatory: in the early 1950s there was a report they were still playing in the snow around Glen Echo; golfers have seen them in the mists around the Burning Tree Country Club, frequently.

But, actually, they have never been

In this age of anti-utilities, I was extremely impressed with the editorial of Jan. 13 concerning "Packing the PSC." The insight of our local paper to be willing to comment on facts in the face of a 'popular movement' is very encouraging. With the necessity of increased rates by all utility companies becoming somewhat regular, your newspaper was willing to take an in-depth look at the real reason despite the obvious repercussions of the Naderite philosophy.

As manager of the largest utility, the support reaffirms the position of Southwestern Bell to provide the best available service at the lowest possible price. Although our rates have been forced upward, I feel that we still offer the best daily bargain in town.

The members of the Public Service Commission should not shoulder the blame for utility increases. I firmly believe they have done more than their share to oversee the activities of all utilities. New members are not the answer

Dear Ann: First it was pot. then pills, next the needle

What do you say when your mother asks where you've been till 3:00 a.m.? Do you tell her you've been in the cemetery waiting for your supplier to show up? And when he doesn't you have to hit the bottle to kill the pain and go to school five hours later - bombed out of your gourd.

girls in gym class ask about the needle marks on your arms? Have you ever gotten the cold sweats in history class and prayed to God no one notices? Half an hour before the softball game you gulp a couple a of downers to help you get through it. It works pretty good. No one suspects a thing. Or so it seems.

When you have no good veins left you try a place you've heard about. So you lift your tongue and jam the needle in but you miss, so you pull it out and keep trying till you get hold of one.

Do you know how it feels to want to die but not have the guts to kill yourself?

CB radio is stolen

Sedalia police are investigating the theft of still another citizens band radio from a parked vehicle.

Chris Semkin, 615 Wilkerson, reported his CB radio, valued at $150, was taken from his van while it was parked at his home Wednesday night. A wing glass was broken to gain entry to the van.

In other police news:

- Thieves made off with almost $220 worth of stereo stereo tapes and a tape player from a car belonging to Mark Childs, 1001 South Garfield, he told police. He said he parked his car at 12:30 a.m. Thursday in his driveway, and when he returned at 7 a.m., the left rear window had been broken out and his car tape player and 23 tapes were missing.

- Losses were estimated at more than $185 by tenants of the Commerce Building, Third and Ohio, following a break-in there which occurred between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 6:53 a.m. Thursday, according to police.

Entry was gained through the front door on Ohio street. A number of doors were damaged and a Polaroid "instamatic" camera, a calculator and a quantity of cash were reported taken, according to employes Betty Strode, Route 6, and Theo Christian, 106 East Johnson.

The offices of Dr. Gary Evert, attorney George Miller, and Sammons and Buller Architects were broken into by the thieves, according to police.

Sedalia woman hit by car;

injuries minor

A 24-year-old Sedalia woman was treated and released at Bothwell Hospital Thursday night for minor injuries she received when she was hit by a car earlier Thursday evening.

Carolyn Ann Glass, 904 South Moniteau, told police she was crossing Kentucky just north of Ninth when she apparently fell and was knocked out. While she was coming to, she was hit by a van driven by David T. Russell, 51, 1414 South Kentucky, who told police he saw the woman lying in the street but could not avoid hitting her.

The program, authorized recently by the FDAA, is designed to help farmers whose supplies of home-grown livestock feed were severely curtailed because of last year's extensive drought. It covers both grain feed and hay feeds such as fescue, alfalfa and orchard grass.

The payments are being made according to pre-determined grain values. even if hay feed is to be purchased, county ASCS office manager Dick Dalton explained Thursday. In cases where hay is purchased, the amount to be paid a farmer is determined by a conversion process in which hay feed values are translated into a corresponding grain
